

6994th Security Squadron Activated at Tan Son Nhut

LOCKED ON TARGET

"The ARDF program has demonstrated without equivocation the capability to provide rapid determination of enemy locations and movement which is of paramount intelligence importance."
COMUSMACV to PACOM, January 1966

"Twenty-five to forty percent of fixes (received) were used for immediate harassment and interdiction of enemy, by artillery, naval gunfire, and tactical air. Targets of major suspected importance receive all types of fire or a combination thereof depending on the forces and means available."
U.S. Army Direct Support Unit, March 1967

"...using the EC-47 coordinates alone, I found a small cave at the location. I went down and peeked inside and saw tables and chairs. Must have been a regimental HQ. Half an hour later, I showed F-4s my find, and they put two (not just one) 2000-pound laser guided bombs in there. Hellooooo? Anybody home?"
Jim Roper, Raven-12, O-1 Bird Dog FAC, Lima Site 54, Laos (EC47.com)

"...I want all personnel in this mission to know that the primary and basic source of intelligence in this country comes from COMPASS DART (now COMBAT COUGAR) and I want the people in these squadrons to know it."
General William W. Momyer, Commander, 7AF, 1968

"...Congratulations on a job well done."
General Creighton S. Abrams, USA COMUSMACV, 1968-1972

THE MISSION: "...day/night, all-weather airborne radio direction finding (ARDF) operations against low-powered enemy operated transmitters in the RVN and permissive areas of Southeast Asia in support of requirements established by COMUSMACV and Commander, 7th Air Force."

7th Air Force OpOrd Nr 450-68, dated January 7, 1968
